Manager performance evaluations and the remuneration policy, system, standard, and structure are reviewed by the Remuneration Committee of Cathay FHC, and then submitted to the Board of Directors for resolution. Our goal is for managers to fulfill their duties to improve our long-term business performance, and further achieve our business strategies and ensure shareholders equity. Cathay carries out performance management and pays remuneration in accordance with the Manager Performance Development Guidelines and Guidelines for Remuneration of Senior Management. The performance of managers is evaluated based on annual goal attainment, and results serve as the basis for remuneration.

(I) Linking Remuneration of the President to Long-term and Short-term Performance

The remuneration structure of Cathay's president consists of a fixed salary, bonuses, and long-term incentive (LTI), in which the fixed salary is linked to the president's responsibilities, performance, and abilities, with reference to market standards. Bonuses are based on Cathay's overall business performance and the president's personal performance in the current year. 20% of CEO's bonuses is deferred and is paid with long-term business performance after 3 years.

Cathay established a long-term incentive program to provide managers with incentives to pursue long-term performance. The president's bonus is deferred in the form of phantom stock for a period of 3 years, thereby linking the president's remuneration with Cathay's long-term performance.

We also established a clawback mechanism to ensure our long-term business performance and shareholder equity. Bonuses that were granted but not yet distributed may be clawed back in the event of intentional or gross negligence in violation of the law, internal regulations, and related contracts, or business conduct that puts the Company at severe risk, or other unethical conduct.
